Support the CU Real Estate Center

In 2020, Leeds graduated its first class on undergraduates with a real estate emphasis, and nearly 450 students have already identified real estate as an area of emphasis this year. The program was created with support from Annual Forum and reflects an expanding need for trained professionals in the fields of real estate finance, development, investment and planning. The center also offers co-curricular programming such as international business treks, advanced software training, industry networking events and global case competitions through industry support.
