

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO
ETHNIC STUDIES & CRITICAL SPORTS STUDIES
DISTINGUISHED LECTURE SERIES

Friday, February 24 * 1:00 – 2:30 p.m. * Humanities 150

David C. LaFevor

Jack Johnson and the Great White Hope in Havana: Prizefighting and Identity on the Margins of U.S. Empire

LA GUERRA EUROPEA.

Una tregua en la campaña.

David C. LaFevor is an Assistant Professor of Latin American History and Digital Humanities at the University of Texas at Arlington. His previous books examine the histories of U.S.-Latin American relations, race, boxing and masculinity in Cuba and Mexico, and capitalism, slavery, and the law at the end of the Atlantic slave trade. He is also the director of the digital humanities project “Siete Villas de Cuba,” which locates, digitizes, and publishes endangered archives pertinent to the slave trade in Cuba.